Katy Beh This modern jeweler is as meticulous about presentation as it is about inventory. In a warmly lit, palm-frond-accented room are minimalist cabinets stocked with delicate pieces by indie artisans. Two favorites: Gurhan and Annette Ferdinandsen (we've had the latter's pinecone-shaped tiger's-eye earring on our wish list for some time).

Shaded in Spanish moss and lined with gingerbread-trim homes, this picturesque corridor has a refined assortment of highly specialized stores.

Aidan Gill At this impossibly cool men's grooming shop, there are tons of products women will love—like Lightfoot's pine-scented soap and lime skin balm by Truefitt & Hill. Dandyish Dublin-born owner Aidan Gill designed the space to resemble a 19th-century apothecary and hired a spiffy bow-tied staff to preside over it all. A bit of trivia: Hunter S. Thompson got one of his last shaves here in the back barbershop area. 2026 Magazine St., 504-587-9090

As You Like It Silver Shop For generations, locals have come to As You Like It to augment their silver collections. A seemingly endless assortment of collectible flatware, hollowware, and baby silver is on offer—and the best part is that owner Duncan Cox happily lets you touch any potential purchase (a rarity, as many silver sellers are fingerprint-phobic). 3033 Magazine St., 504-897-6915, asyoulikeitsilvershop.com
